*So many things go into a year at college . . .
the people you get to know and enjoy being with, classes and studying—rewarded for the most part by mental exhaustion, eyestrain and discouraging grades but occasionally by a surprisingly fascinating learning experience which makes up for all the time spent, social events—anything from formal dances to sports to three o'clock bull sessions . . .*

How can a book possibly tell all of this? A year at college is something entirely different to each individual person. So, perhaps, all we can do is gather together a few pictures of people and goings-on, throw in a brief comment here and there and let you do the rest with your own imagination and special memories.

This book is dedicated to ...

... a tiny spark—something unexplainable which makes Park College a little bit different from any other place, something which makes students swear they never want to see the place again and then come back, something which they recognize enough to complain when it is in danger of being extinguished, something which can easily be cheapened and finally smothered by the rush and throng of the world with its values set on expediency and conformity, a spark which can be kept going only so long as there are people who are not satisfied with having things just handed to them but will keep asking questions and seeking solutions to the problems that disturb them. Don't let it go out.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

The Board of Trustees is a vital and indispensable part in the life of Park College. Its members establish policies concerning the curriculum and instruction, take measures proper for the advancement and protection of college interests, confer degrees and help raise money for the college.

It is through the efforts of these men that much of the work, not always discernible to students but important to the college as a whole, is done.

PARK COLLEGE
PARKVILLE, MISSOURI

OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

To the Members of the Graduating Class of 1957:

As you leave Park I want you to take with you not only nostalgic recollections of moments of high glee and deep happiness; not only feelings of satisfaction with a job well done; but also pride in the fact that in receiving Park's degree you have earned one of the best.

Certainly it has not been easy. If it had, we would have done you less than justice. Certainly too, there have been disappointments, frustrations, and anger. There has been disquiet over changes wrought in your own time. Yet added up, it all amounts to growth and life.

You leave here not only with a great fund of knowledge, not only with enhanced proficiency in your chosen field, but also with that wisdom, judgment, and responsibility which mark a liberally educated person. You go not only with our congratulations, but also with our blessings and good wishes.

PRESIDENT

This year Dr. Long took on once more the grueling schedule of work and travel which characterized his preceding year at Park. His efforts toward making the name of Park College known and respected throughout the nation, coupled with his strong leadership in the future development of the college itself make him anything but a "figurehead" president.

Despite this impressive schedule, both the president and Mrs. Long find much time for personal contact with the students—Dr. Long in a weekly press conference and both the Longs in Sunday afternoons "at home" and dorm discussions. In addition, their presence can usually be counted on for any extra-curricular events at the college.

VICE-PRESIDENT

The job of over-seeing all public relations work for Park College is an immense one, as anyone acquainted with the enormous number of individuals and organizations interested or somehow connected with Park College will agree. Mr. Dunseth's work, involving fund-raising, publicity and contact with alumni and donors to Park, has been greatly amplified at the present time by the development work going on, which is also under his supervision. In the eyes of most students, however, his role as Parchie basketball coach and his family's active participation in school activities are quite essential to fully exemplifying Park's vice-president.

William B. Dunseth, M.B.A.

BUSINESS MANAGER

Among his many and varied responsibilities in connection with the college finances Mr. Stanton has the unwanted job of explaining countless times how far a certain amount of money can be stretched and why an extra $100 just isn't there. This year, with the ambitious construction and remodeling program, the job is even more difficult. Despite the harrowing nature of living mainly on the future, Mr. Stanton presents an orderly and optimistic view of affairs and keeps the many operations under his supervision in smooth running order.

DEAN OF THE COLLEGE

Dr. Greenlee assumed the position of Dean of the College at the beginning of this school year and was officially inaugurated September 28 with the presentation of the "top hat," symbol of the deanship at Park. Since then he has rapidly become involved in the numerous phases of responsibility connected with his job and directs much of his interest and efforts toward maintaining and improving the high standards of a liberal arts education at Park.

Dean Greenlee is interested both in college administrative work and in his chosen field of study, history, thus carrying out the Park tradition of having a historian as dean. He comes to Park from Southwestern University in Georgetown, Texas, where he was Associate Dean and Professor of History.

Park is fortunate in the addition not only of Dean Greenlee but of his equally personable family as well. Seated from left to right: Sarah, Mrs. Greenlee, David Scott and Dean Greenlee.

DEAN OF RELIGIOUS LIFE

Park's unorthodox Dean of Religious Life is sometimes upsetting to students reared in a "comfortable Christianity" because of his liking for making people think. However, there is notably little sleeping during his sermons. Besides his responsibilities in connection with the Campus Church and chapel programs, Dean Easton teaches several courses in religion and serves as religious counselor. An added phase of his activities important to the Narva and Stylus is his position as staff advisor to the Student Publications Board.

Harry J. Miller, M.A.
Dean of Students

A list of the responsibilities which fall to Park's Dean of Women would include such ones as advisor to the Women's Judicial Council and the Women's Interdorm Council, Health Center Coordinator, sponsor of the Vocational Guidance Program, supervisor of campus housing and sponsor of Stephens dormitory. However, to describe her as a person one must include the understanding counselor and very charming hostess which most students know her as.

Chalcea White, M.A.
Dean of Women

REGISTRAR

Mrs. Browne's responsibilities as registrar include all phases of keeping the student academic records. Her office schedules classes, works on registration and keeps track of students' grade point averages.

Sherry Browne

DIRECTOR OF ADMISSIONS

Park's ever-growing admissions program, under the direction of Dr. Schnabel, is a very important part of the long range plans for development and expansion under which the college is working.

DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC INFORMATION AND SERVICE

Through Miss Anderson's office, speakers and student groups are scheduled for off-campus engagements, college outside publicity is channeled and arrangements for special campus events are made.

The program, which includes courses in history, political science, economics, psychology, sociology, education and recreation, utilizes many interdepartmental requirements in the belief that these courses are necessarily interrelated and together give a broad outlook and means toward practical application in the liberal arts.

SENIOR HONORS

Special recognition is given through various means to members of the Senior class who have shown outstanding qualities of academic attainment, character, leadership and service to the school. Those elected as Outstanding Parkites and those selected for membership in Pi Delta Sigma and Who's Who are chosen on the basis of general qualities, while the membership of Alpha Delta is comprised of the upper ten percent of the seniors in scholastic achievement and also includes the two highest ranking juniors.

Dear Sirs:

This problem has kept me and my staff of experts sleepless for a full afternoon. We finally pinned the pictures on the wall and played pin the tail on the donkey. My secretary won, hands down. Hands down is the hardest way to win a fair game of what we were playing. My assistant, George, walked out the window blindfolded and has not been seen in some time. We understand he has a very nice position with a rhubarb firm in Poughkeepsie, New York, and has married a fine German girl.

Yours truly,

Thinkers unite!

Campus Church activities this year seemed to take on a little more life. The Board of Elders began the year with a planning session at Dean Easton's home in September. During the year there were several dorm discussions, panels, pancake suppers and other activities. Dean Greenlee led a series of discussions on "Protestantism in Culture" during Lent. Easter was celebrated with a special sunrise service at Alfalfa Point. Another big occasion was the WUS carnival which provided an evening of fun plus money for a worthy cause. Probably the biggest event in the life of the Campus Church was Religion in Life Week, featuring Dr. Paul Holmer of the University of Minnesota and Rev. Roger Carstensen of Phillips University. These two men gave some excellent talks and stimulated many discussions.

Besides these special activities the Campus Church carried out its regular jobs with some improvements and additions. The Worship Commission continued to provide the Wednesday vespers services, and a newly created commission took care of the voluntary daily chapels. The Morning Watch group grew both in numbers and in vitality, and several cell groups for prayer and discussion were active throughout the year.

CHOIR

The choir of 1957 wasn't satisfied with the usual sedate choir tour, so they plowed blithely on into the worst Nebraska snowstorm in many years.

The first performance of the tour was a series of anthems for a church service in Hiawatha, Kansas. Soon after leaving there, the travelers found themselves snowbound in two crowded buses along with a string of hundreds of other cars. Mr. Seipp and Miss Lewis (who chaperoned the trip) spent many anxious hours wondering how you get buses over three to ten-foot snowdrifts, but snowplows saved the stricken groups (after twenty-eight hours) from complete starvation. Rations during the interim period were rather low. One bus was lucky—they had several cookies, 1/6 of an apple and a swig of orange juice each. The other busload portioned out a handful of prunes and three carrots among its occupants.

Although the choir had cancelled all other engagements, the people of Lincoln welcomed the weary wanderers into their homes for some much needed rest. The sudden breakdown of one bus resulted in rather cramped quarters for 160 miles of the trip, but it was with high spirits and real meaning that the choir entered the college gates singing "Hail, Hail, Park College."

A council innovation this year was the sponsoring of a concert by Pete Seeger, folk singer. A fun-packed evening was enjoyed by students, faculty, and outside guests who entered into the communal spirit invoked by Seeger.

Another undertaking of this year's council was the Work Program Committee which made an evaluation based on student opinion. A typical high spirited meeting for discussion of the work program is pictured below.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Besides promoting campus citizenship, stimulating interest in student government, and cooperating with the faculty and administration, this year's student council also plunged into the new role of a service organization. While attempting to promote the best interests of the students, the council initiated a plan for bringing outside talent to the campus. Its initial offering under the new program was a concert presented by Pete Seeger, noted folk singer. The council also attempted to utilize campus talent by hiring a group of Park musicians for the between-semesters dance sponsored by the council.

Although the council did not attain the high goals of accomplishment it set for itself at the beginning of the year, it can point with pride to the record it did attain. A revision of the constitution, including the insertion of amendments left out during previous administrations, was completed early in the year, giving the council a workable constitution all year. Hell Week was completely abolished, and a campus clean-up program was instituted in its place. A centralization of the powers of the student council was brought about by amendments to the constitution. A great step toward building a better student government-administration rapport was brought about through the student council's special committees on the controversial issues of the work program and inter-collegiate athletics.

The councils are made up of two members from each of the upper classes who serve permanently during their stay at Park, and one temporary freshman member, along with the chairmen.

NARVA

Looking for an extra-curricular activity that's a real challenge? There's one which few people know about, but which offers all the excitement and diversity anyone could ask for—it might well be called "How to Age Forty Years in Nine Months" and consists of working on the yearbook staff (this probably applies to the other publication staffs as well, but this writer can only speak from experience).

From the very beginning of the school year when the Narva staff returned to Park to find their office turned over to the Janitor Department, their workroom to the Education Department and their own belongings piled unceremoniously in the middle of the hall in third-floor Mackay, through months of scheduling pictures and then rescheduling them when the films didn't turn out, to the nightmare of the final deadline, it has been an experience not easily forgotten. Nevertheless, it has had its good points—the new Narva office, conveniently located in second-floor Alumni, has a lovely view overlooking Parkville, a radiator which works wonderfully in warm weather and music provided by several obliging voice, piano and brass instrumental students. Then too, there is a certain satisfaction in having some concrete evidence of a year's work (if you can stand looking at it by then).

The Narva staff is indebted to all the students who contributed copy and snapshots and to Bob Tolan who took the pictures for the book during the final month before publication.

Few people realize all that goes into publishing a weekly newspaper. The Thursday deadline before the first issue of the Stylus found three frantic staff members some thirty inches short of copy. Then one small suggestion from a Park student led to a feature story of filler length but more than filler quality. What could have topped the Andrea Doria story?

This incident is one of the few that gave most Thursday nights a kind of captivating (or perhaps captive) charm. The finished product, a relief both to the staff and to the Print Shop, was the culmination of a week of often quite hectic work. And the readers?—Oh, they skim through it and then throw it away.

IDLER

The Idler, published in the spring of 1956 and again this year, is a student literary magazine replacing or consolidating two former publications, the Scribbler and Stiletto. An editorial staff of four students, with the help of a faculty adviser, judged the contributions as to literary value and content in an effort to select the cream of the year's student creative writing for publication.

The Idler has featured poems of all kinds, prose ranging from dramatic short stories to brief, humorous essays or sketches, and also a number of interesting little pieces which could only be classified as "things."

It has been the goal of the staff to provide in this publication a first-rate, formal outlet for the creative talent of the student body. It is hoped that its success in this capacity will make the Idler a permanent part of the "Park tradition."

YOUNG DEMOCRATS AND YOUNG REPUBLICANS

As if donkeys weren't stubborn enough, this one has TWO minds of its own!

In an election year, political clubs on a college campus can really come to life, having received the added stimulation of something to do—and the two Park organizations took full advantage of this factor this year. Activities included polling voters in Parkville, inviting political candidates to the campus, attending rallies and speeches, and distributing campaign literature in the surrounding area (in which the outnumbered Republicans sometimes took their very lives in their hands).

Republicans rally at dinner honoring Stanley E. Dale, candidate for Missouri congressman.

National elections! Suez crisis! Hungarian revolt! What next?

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

The International Relations Club strives to stimulate in its members, and in the student body, an interest in current problems in the field of international affairs. The club is an active member of the Association of IRC clubs and a leading contingent in area and regional IRC activities, as evidenced by the fact that two of the members this year have held offices in these organizations—Jonathan Barker as president of the Kansas City Area IRC and Robert McFadden as vice-president of the Central Regional Organization.

The club meets weekly to discuss recent events, attempting at the same time to correlate the news with long-term trends and principles. In addition to arranging a wide variety of special campus events, the club presents each year the UN Observance Day chapel and an IRC Week—the subject of which this year was Red Clouds Over Asia.

King and Queen dance at the "Winter Royale."

Una sonrisa, un refresco, que noche encantadora!

Fall found the ACC's ready and anxious for Rush Week, the serenade, dinner and party. Efforts were rewarded when the members, new and old, celebrated at the Larry Coles' home in the country in an afternoon of baseball, good food and fellowship.

This year the ACC's went south of the border with "El Patio de Antonio." A romantic serenade, low lights and dark-haired señoritas completed an intriguing evening at the Meetin' House with M.C. Jack Eaton furnishing the light touch.

The traditional snowball dance made excellent use of the theme "Winter Royale." A king was elected for the first time, and their majesties David Axon and Emily Rooker reigned with the queen's attendants, Marilyn Douthitt and Jacque Rabe.

In sports, the Cleos took the speedball championship for the first time in a long while, and the Tonies proved that last year wasn't an accident by reclaiming the championship in basketball.

Second semester saw the ACC's at their very early outdoor Easter breakfast where, in spite of the smoke and the unusual hour, everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

LEC ACTIVITIES

Throughout the year, the Lances and Elaines have exchanged parties, serenades and "ye olde jousts." Starting with the rush party at Alumni, many of the events have been heightened through the fine performance of the LEC's unique organization, the combo, which has played at several of the club parties and took part in the Mu Sigma Music Festival entry.

The LEC's again sponsored the Sadie Hawkins Dance in November. They also took the initiative in sponsoring an added event in February — a pizza party in Commons.

The big event of the year was, of course, the Knight-Time Ball, again held at Garrett Hall in Kansas City.

For variety and a little exercise, the Elaines challenged the Lances to a basketball game, and the Lances returned the challenge in a softball game. The latter was followed by a picnic in the LEC Park behind the Observatory which was the club's Help Day project.

OAC ACTIVITIES

"Hail the OAC's"—the heart-felt singing of the Green and White rang in Thompson Commons as the Orion-Aurora club welcomed in another fruitful year. With the taste of last year's victories still lingering in their mouths the club pitched into the hustle and bustle of Rush Week with typical OAC verve and energy. Sheparding the usual fine crop of new club members out to "Doc" Hamilton's house the older members proceeded to show the "frosh" just what being an OAC meant—a lot of fun. After this they plunged into Harvest Festival preparations and came up with first place in the float contest and an Aurora as Homecoming Queen.

The club solved the problem of how to work and still have fun by putting on the annual OAC Homecoming Show. The name of the show, "Hullabaloo", is defined in the dictionary as "full of sound and fury," and it was just that. After a successfull two-night run, the members shook the rafters of the old J.R. with laughter and dancing.

Not content with the laurels for fine work done first semester the members started planning for a bang-up job on the Blossomtime Ball. Looking toward the end of the year, the OAC's felt positive that they would be able to say "and a good time was had by all."

PCC ACTIVITIES

The PCC's held their Rush Week party in the old J.R. this year and their party at the end of the week in Deer Park. The club won honors in the Help Day competition with their hard work in the J.R. and cleaning up the small park in front of Herr House. The talent show presented by the new Parchies and Callios was enjoyed by everyone, as was the Callios' annual "surprise" party for the Parchies shortly before Christmas.

The Parchies did very well in sports again this year, and the Callios, if not always the winning team, surely did enjoy themselves.

Second semester activities were almost entirely centered around the Parchie Varsity, held at the Bell Road Barn Playhouse in April. The theme, "Seven Dreams," combined with the cooperation of the entire club, resulted in the presentation of one of the best Varsities held in recent years.

Some of the events which climaxed the year for the PCC's were the ice cream social, the breakfast at Parchie Park and the formal dinner at which the Outstanding Parchie and Callio were announced. With the close of the year came an understanding of the meaning of the closing words in the club hymn . . . "True friendship always, Purple and Gold."

PARK SINGERS

This year in Park Singers will go down as the year of defunct bus transportation. It is a year that will often call up the words, "Remember the time when . . ." Some of the 'remember whens' that might come to mind—the show we didn't make, dressing on the bus with closed eyebones (Hey, fella, you know your socks don't match?), sitting on a broken-down bus surrounded by miles and miles of snowy Colorado, the new verses to "Hey Lolly," the wild rides to Knob Knoster and Columbia and the oft-repeated words, "Take off your coats—we sing in four minutes."

In spite of all, the Singers proved their true merit in a season of successful shows. They performed for audiences over a wide territory, varying in composition from high school students to the Missouri Music Education Convention at Warrensburg. This year found Maestro Seipp, director of the group, adding his own personal touches at the keyboard. Jack McCreary on double bass and Jim Rhodes on cello provided additional flavor for the group. Jackie Nystrom acted as Master of Ceremonies with Jack Eaton again adding a light touch to the introductions.

ORCHESTRA

A new innovation in the Music Department this year is the Little Orchestra Society. Under the direction of Richard Cormier, the heterogeneous group shaped up into a bona fide orchestra, presenting their spring concert on May 19 in the chapel.

Members of the orchestra come from Park College; the community of Parkville; Kansas City, Kansas; Kansas City, Missouri; Linden and Gladstone.

BAND

The Park College Concert Band, nestling as it does in its newly-built music annex, has totally amazed its listeners and, most of all, its members. The "new maestro" (he has become a veteran already) is Mr. Richard Cormier, who also holds down the bass trombone chair in the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra. His definitive hand, perhaps an attribute of his study under Pierre Monteux, has gained the utmost respect of the entire band. His Leonard Bernstein conducting tactics certainly aided the gaining of this respect — a rather fearful countenance has a way of inspiring the most uninspired.

In addition to the traditional marches, the band has performed concert music from Bach to Ray Anthony, and has also taken on some selections from hit musicals. The group has appeared in dessert concerts, the Spring Festival, and was invaluable during the soccer and basketball seasons.

The band consists of thirty-seven alert musicians, some of whom were generously contributed by the local high school. It is a working organization that is constantly striving for perfection and, believe it or not, often comes close to achieving it.

OPENING WEEKS

The school year opened with the whirlwind of Rush Week. Dinners and parties were given for the freshmen by the various clubs, along with the traditional serenades. From the round of fun-packed rush parties, the campus entered into the essential and sometimes "confusing" event known as registration. Following this, the regular routine of classes began, highlighted by the Opening Convocation at which Dr. Hollington Tong, a former Park student and the present Ambassador of the Republic of China to the United States delivered the address.

HARVEST FESTIVAL

The 1956 Harvest Festival, under the chairmanship of Wallie Palmer, opened with an all-school variety show under the direction of Mr. David. This was followed by a torch parade leading the students to the pep rally at the soccer field.

170 parents and friends were guests on campus during the busy weekend. Saturday's events included a coffee hour, after which the cornerstone ceremony at the new Hawley dormitory was held. The traditional Harvest Festival parade headed the afternoon's activities, after which the Park Pirates played their first soccer game of the season, beating Wentworth Military Academy by a score of 3-2. During the half-time the candidates for Harvest Festival Queen were introduced.

Saturday night the Mardi Gras Dance was held in Thompson Commons, highlighted by the coronation of the Harvest Festival Queen, Stevie Webster, and the presentation of the trophy for the winning OAC float chairman, Jack Wells.

There's much more to a play than the finished product. First come endless hours of rehearsals, memorizing pages and pages of lines, stumbling around on a half-finished stage set and wondering how the play will ever be ready in time. Then too, there's a curious sort of fascination in being backstage on the night of the play, putting on makeup, relaxing during intermission and laughing over the quirks that inevitably turn up at the last minute, or worse yet, on stage.

DESPERATE HOURS

The Park Players' third offering of the season was the recent literary, Broadway and movie hit, "The Desperate Hours" by Joseph Hayes. Although the plot is not elaborate, the action, suspense and emotion portrayed in the play make it outstanding. The students in the cast used these factors to full advantage and put on a performance which was fast moving and almost too convincing. Their presentation was greatly enhanced by the staging—lights, sound effects and a stage set which encompassed a two-story house, the sheriff's office, the front of the house and the attic of a neighboring house were excellently co-ordinated and added much to the total impact of the play. The cast included Bob McFadden, Lynne Paulson, Bob Yerington, George Stackhouse, Bill Booth, Maryetta Ackenbom, David Greenlee, Dave Sutton, Duke Monroe, Milt Hibbard, Walt Halliday, Dave Stevenson, Margaret Petter, and Barry Simpson.

"You ain't got it in you!"

"Carson, did you ever look into the eyes of one of those crazy kids . . . and hear him say 'You got yours coming, copper'?"

"Had it all doped, didn't you?"

No comment necessary.

PICNIC

Picnic, a summer romance by William Inge, was the first dramatic production of the year and marked the return of Mr. Jenkin David, instructor of speech and drama, to the campus. The play was outstanding in many ways, from the remarkably professional stage setting done by George Croskey of Parkville, to the talented Park players themselves. Title roles were held by Lynne Paulson as Madge Owens, Bob Yerington as Hal Carter, Carol Wardell as Millie Owens, and Joyse Hess as Rosemary Sidney.

"Please . . ."

JOAN OF LORRAINE

Joan of Lorraine, a play in two acts by Maxwell Anderson, was presented during the Thanksgiving weekend—November 21, 22, and 24. It is a modern version of the traditional Joan of Arc story and adds a few touches of realism to the almost legendary figure. It is presented as a play within a play, a device which enabled the players themselves to discuss and analyze the essential ideas in the story, and also cut stage settings to a minimum. Title roles in the production were held by Carol Wardell as Joan, George Stewart as the Director, and Jordan Papathanassiou as the Dauphin.

"I am the maid from Lorraine!"

"Hey, we'd better get a move on here."

"I don't need you, I'll rule France by myself."

"Why, you're just a little girl, Joan."

"We're only trying to help you, Joan."

Park's large representation of students from foreign countries gives the college an added flavor and uniqueness which most other places cannot have. Coming from a wide range of countries (Japan, Korea, Turkey, British West Indies, Nigeria and others), they lend an insight and perspective that is often very good for students in the landlocked Midwest.

CAMPUS EVENTS

During the course of the year, many outstanding speakers and cultural events are featured on the campus, usually attracting a number of outside visitors from the surrounding area and occasionally even some students.

In November, lovers of folk music were given the opportunity of hearing one of the most noted U.S. singers in this field—Pete Seeger.

David Campanella—already taking after Dad.

In the art field, several excellent exhibits were held. A February show featured the sketches used by Frederick James, Kansas City painter, in preparation for his recently completed mural. In March, an outstanding collection of American paintings, including works by Winslow Homer, Darrel Austin, Frederick Remington, Dwight Tryon and others was shown.

Among the many noteworthy speakers on campus were Stuart Symington, Senator from Missouri, who gave the address for the Second Semester Opening Convocation and Russell Kirk, noted author and lecturer on conservatism who was the featured speaker during Cultural Relations Week in March.

Outside speakers were not the only source of intellectual stimulation, however. During the year, two members of the Park faculty gave lecture series. In the fall, Dr. Manoil spoke on the subject, "Psychology of Art," and in the spring, Dr. Hauptmann gave talks concerning "Dilemmas of Politics".

These events, along with many others, give added impetus and meaning to the knowledge gained in classwork and are easily accessible to those few who will take advantage of this part of college learning.

CHESTNUT

Another year has come and gone and the men of Chestnut are still occupying their rented home—Stephens Cottage. Although their hearts bleed at the thought of its proper occupants being shifted from one place to another on campus, they have graciously consented to stay at the cottage as long as necessary. (Sez you! Editorial comment.)

The twenty-six men, buried as they were in their studies, held only two social events—a halloween party and an open house. Preparations for the latter raised quite a sizable duststorm as rooms underwent their once-a-year housecleaning. The members also staged a dinner party complete with proper ceremony in remembrance of the burning of "ole" Chestnut.

COPLEY - THAW

In January of 1957, Copley-Thaw returned to its rightful role—that of a men's dormitory. The building was found to be in reasonable living condition despite the long interim during which it was occupied by freshmen women. The students who were soon to be known collectively as the "Men of Copley" were individuals of diverse and varied character. The heterogeneity of this group is easily traceable to the fact that its members had been conditioned to dorm life in such a milieu of dwellings as the quonsets and the archaic halls of Woodward.

The moving process, which could have been extremely trying, was greatly facilitated by the kind assistance of car-owning faculty and staff members. Only a few complaints were heard from the new residents—those coming mostly from students who had wanted pink rooms but had not been one of the lucky ones. Generally speaking, the new Copleyites found themselves highly compatible with the new situation. This was due in no small part to the efforts of the new Head Residents, Mr. and Mrs. Chabe. Thus began a new epic in the history of Copley-Thaw Hall.

HAWLEY

To us, the sixty-three freshmen girls on campus, Hawley Hall, the newest addition to the campus, finished shortly after Christmas vacation, has now become home. After days of confused packing the long-awaited move began and cars loaded to capacity weaving among students on foot carried the assorted paraphernalia common to girls' rooms—lamps, shoes, typewriters, stuffed animals, records, etc.

The change was complete but we no longer feel like visitors; we like it here . . . foam rubber mattresses, modern furniture, big wide windows. There are other things about Hawley . . . the lounge is luxurious, the phones work, and the shrimp pink entrance way was just made for saying good night. There is a kitchen with the last word in equipment, a rather small laundry room, fabulous fountains with both hot and cold water—and we didn't even change housemothers—Mom Hawkins is still with us, loved and appreciated.

Hawley is a part of Park now. A dedication ceremony made it legal and Open House gave it a formal touch.

HERR HOUSE

Located three sniffs from breakfast, a few hundred feet from Hawley's clamor and under the hill from Chestnut's heckling is our dorm named, confusingly enough, Herr House, where Mrs. Fleming, housemother maintains rigid control with seeming laxity. We are a dorm full of personality—as we were last year and the year before and the year before that. This year's personality may be found on fourth floor in its clean bathtubs (they'll probably be that way next year, too, because no one here takes baths); on third floor in its noisiness (ask any other floor); on second floor in its dignity (it has more rooms per person than any other floor); and on first floor in its advantageousness (for people who are too tired to climb stairs).

In the fall, guests were cordially greeted at the first Open House of the year. The punch was exceptionally good and some of the guests lingered quite happily (in the punch bowl). In the spring, we went Japanese with our "Tea House of the March Moon." The same punch was served, and the house party was conceded to be very successful. In fact the whole year, with its raids, fire drills and touching serenades will undoubtedly become one of our most-loved memories of Park.

Mrs. Sarah Fleming, housemother.

NICKEL HALL

Noah Webster defines a dormitory as being "a sleeping apartment capable of containing many beds." In our case, this is a moot statement as the phrase "many beds" and the word "sleeping" are rather incongruous with Nickel's true nature. However, there are some outstanding characteristics that must be brought to the fore.

Nickel Hall, living exclusively on the banks of its reputation, is the home of what is fondly ycleped "the calculated raid." Under the able guidance of "Daddy Pat," we have been the instigators of those nasty and ruthless assaults on Herr House and "the female Copley," always keeping in mind the instructions and cues as planned in our scripts.

Our quarters were once the stomping ground of a combination convict-minister who has since marched on to far greater fame than any other member of our group, with the possible exception of Sarkesian who has finally broken into the pro ranks. It was through the aid of men like this that we were able to raise the name of Nickel to headline proportions.

As yet, the year has been relatively uneventful. Although Nickel houses the campus athletes, dramatic hopefuls, a prospective groom and a humble musician, it has been considerably quieter than in past years. Much of the reason undoubtedly lies in the absence of the "Good Captain," to which our section of this publication is fondly dedicated.

John Taylor, president; Duke Monroe, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, social chairman.

A typical (?) scene.

STEPHENS

Need any tips on packing and moving from dorm to dorm? The women of Stephens are experts. Most of the members during the courses of their college careers have moved from Copley to Herr House to Stephens Cottage to Copley to Hawley. Their transient nature, however, has not diminished the spirit of the dorm, and they have aptly demonstrated that with a little imagination any place can be made into a home. Their current residence in the rarefied atmosphere of fourth floor Hawley provides a magnificent view of the Missouri River and also puts to good use the strong leg muscles which Park's rolling terrain somehow develops.

Although most of the members were seniors going through the rigors of the last few hectic months before graduation, the dorm survived remarkably well and even managed to squeeze some fun inbetween the all-night study vigils. Besides the Christmas party at Dean White's and the "surprise" birthday parties for each girl, the dorm members had their traditional formal Open House and, last but not least, a house party.

OFF - CAMPUS HOUSING

Park's increasing number of married students are housed in an assortment of dwellings, both on the college campus and in Parkville. These include apartments in Dyer, Gillette and the quonsets, plus various others in Parkville and Kansas City.

Woodward Dormitory, technically on-campus, but literally quite "off" housed freshmen men before the majority of them moved to Copley second semester.

We looked for some inhabitants in these buildings, but this was all we found.

The Men's and Women's Athletic Councils, composed of two representatives from each social club and an elected chairman, act as coordinating bodies for the year's athletic activities. In the spring they sponsor the annual athletic banquet.

This year, the Parchies took the soccer championship on spirit and determination. Although they did not beat the Lances, neither could the Lances edge them. The two meetings ended in ties of 1-1, and 4-4. In general, the soccer play, technically, this year was slightly inferior to that of last year, but the teams made up for it in teamwork and spirit, aided also by the somewhat improved attendance at games.

In speedball, most of the skill in playing was displayed in aerial tactics rather than groundwork. Competition among the three top teams was close, as is indicated by the number of tie games, and resulted in a fairly interesting season.

This year, the Tonies determinedly kept the basketball championship they won last year despite some close competition from the Orions, who had an added advantage in height. The Tonies' teamwork and their accurate shooting were probably the deciding factor.

The Elaines led the girl's season all the way by being undefeated, although they almost lost this distinction in the middle of the season when a hot Callio team led their game until the last minute. The Auroras and Cleos played good, clean ball but didn't have the height and strength in guarding that the Elaines had.

INTERCOLLEGIATE SOCCER

Starting the season with an exciting and well-earned victory over Wentworth Military Academy by a score of 3-2 during Harvest Festival week-end, the Park College soccer team went on to win its next two games as well against Kansas City Bible College. In their final game, Wentworth avenged its loss by defeating Park. This still gave the Pirates a satisfying record of three wins to one loss, however—quite an improvement over the previous season.

INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL

In this, their second year of playing intercollegiate basketball, the Park Pirates, although aided by some much needed height on the team, nevertheless ended up with a final tally of two wins and eight losses. They did, however, put on an impressive showing at times. Their first game, played against Wentworth Military Academy, was a close battle the whole way and ended in the Pirates' defeat by only one point after two overtimes. Later in the season, they piled up a score of 100-47 in defeating Kansas City Bible Colege. With a little more experience (and most of the players will be returning next year), maybe the third year will be the charm.

C. STANLEY URBAN

"When you've finished typing that address, you can compile a list of books from the library for outside reading in American History, and, oh yes, if you have time . . ."

Now why can't they have maid service as part of the work program?

Got anything new, exciting and different today, Deanie?

It's really very simple . . .

Mr. Fehlandt with members of his office staff—left to right: Megan Stone, Chuck Olson, Wes Houghland. (Correction: Chuck Olson works next door in the Dean of Men's office and is apparently shirking his duties in that capacity. Aha!)

WORK METHODS PROGRAM

Under the direction of a new Work Program Coordinator, Mr. Theodore Fehlandt, the office has followed its usual routine of setting up work schedules, finding suitable jobs for some three hundred student workers, handing out undertime assignments and, in general, bringing the program into a semblance of organization as it carries out its part of Park College life.

The Work Program has undergone a good deal of investigation this year by both student council and faculty committees in an attempt to find ways of improving the efficiency and benefits of the program and of stimulating student opinion and effort on the job.

The philosophy of work has taken on a new vigor with a supervisors' training program, started in the spring, whereby all supervisors must attend meetings directed toward achieving better supervisory standards.

Ah, the joys of working in the library.

Mr. Fehlandt with Bernice Collins, one of the office staff.

STUDENT INDUSTRIES

Under the direction of Mr. Fehlandt, the Park College Student Industries has continued to try to serve the students in the best possible manner, besides also providing practical experience for those taking part in the work.

The Bookstore, probably the one industry that has shown most change, has increased its stock greatly so as to be able to better serve the students and staff. Some of the new items that have donned its shelves include typewriters, records and cloth goods.

The Snack Bar has continued to be very popular among the students with its new line of sandwiches and bakery goods. TV, ping-pong, the jukebox and general sociability keep the place lively most of the time.

With cinemascope installed last summer, the Park Theatre has been able to present better and newer movies than ever before, and still at very low prices.

A brand new Carry-all has taken the place of the old, all-too-familiar one which breathed its last shortly before Christmas.

"We had faith in you."

Sorry, we're out of books on trout fishing.

O.K.! Let's make it snappy!

JOLLY ROGER

The J.R. is all things to all people—the home to those who have no home, a haven to those who crave escape from the academic atmosphere which pervades life here at Park! Vive la J.R.!

It's all in the wrist.

Don't worry, he won't bite!

PARK THEATRE

Formula for Park College weekend on campus: go to movie, buy bag of popcorn, sit in balcony, hang feet over edge, drop popcorn on people below, try to hear movie over racket on first-floor front row—and relax.

LAUNDRY

Laundry work must always be started at five o'clock in the morning, with much noise and clatter especially when picking up and delivering to the various dorms. Reason? Oh, we don't know, but it's a tradition.

Now don't they look domestic?

WAVERLY HOSPITAL

Mrs. Luella Matthews, R.N.

Miss Gertrude Markley, R.N.

Poor Dave! Looks like a bad case of studyitis.

Miss Frances Fishburn, Librarian

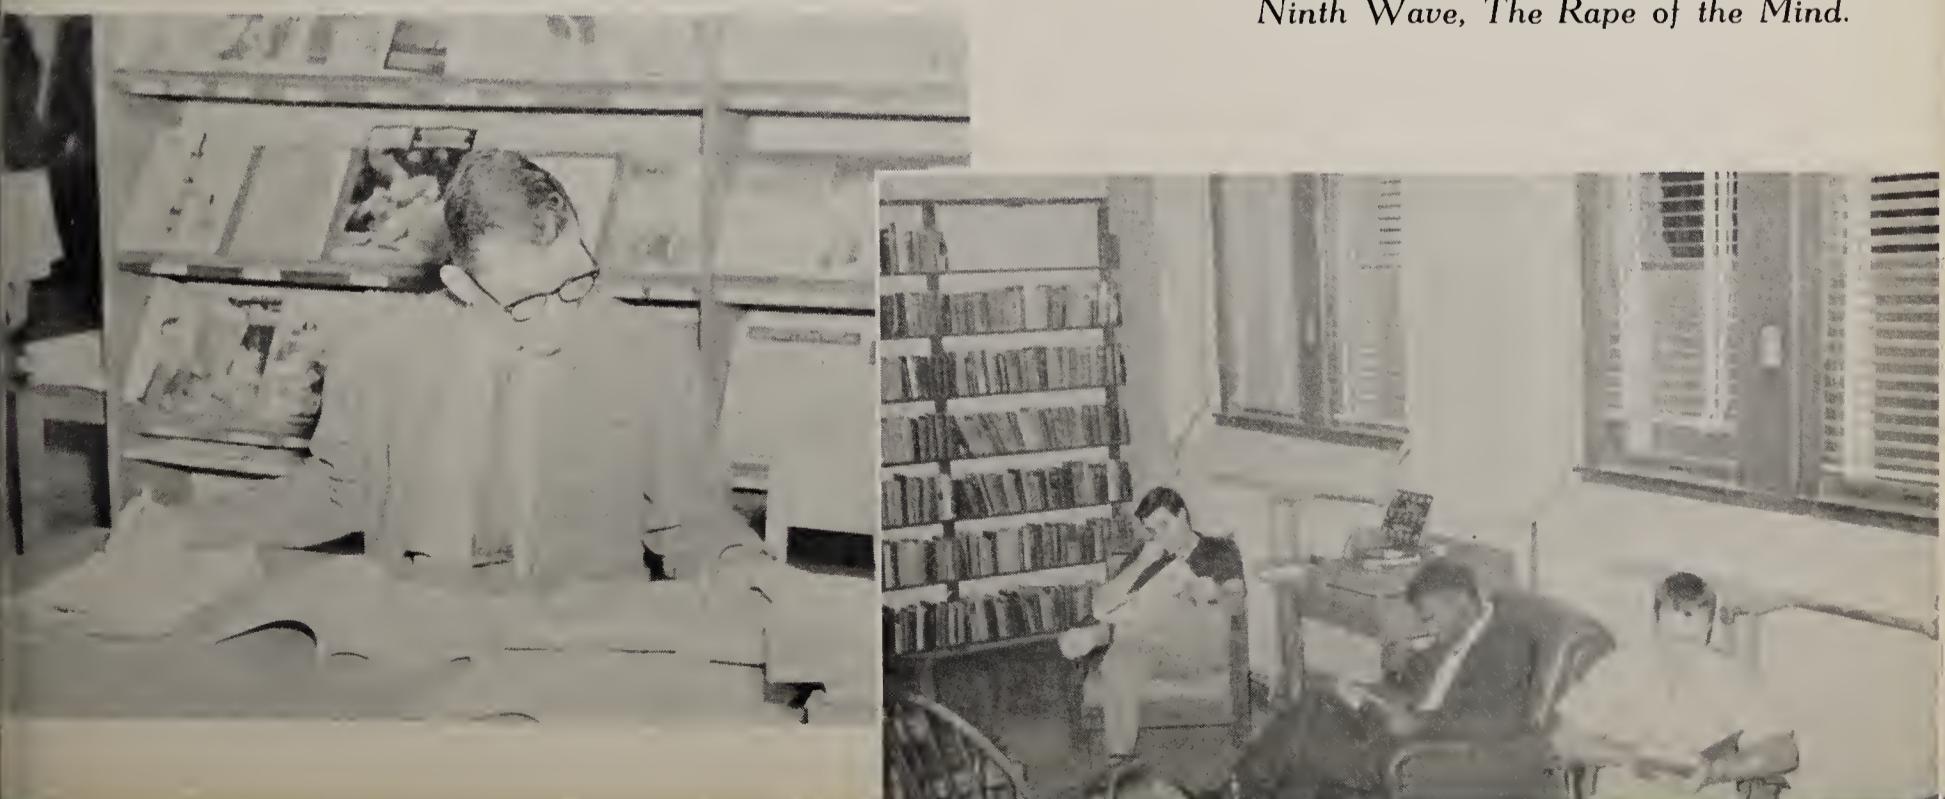

Mrs. Hazel Rindone, Librarian

LIBRARY

An oft-time neglected but, nevertheless, quite essential part of any college campus is the library. Students who do find occasion to go there usually find it quite a center of activity—some people studying or relaxing with magazines or records, others frantically trying to distribute two books among twenty students for the next day's assignment, and always a political science major hidden somewhere behind a stack of Congressional Records.

A new innovation this year in connection with the library was a series of book reviews given by faculty members. Among the selections were The Ninth Wave, The Rape of the Mind.

One spoonful to a customer.

*Don't look so glum Jon—
It could be worse!*

Do you suffer from dishpan hands?

THOMPSON COMMONS

Thompson Commons, the hub of campus dietary activity, received a new face lifting this year with the installation of a new cafeteria line and a bit of redecorating. Another change was instituted in that the noon meal is now served cafeteria style in staggered lunch periods rather than the proverbial "family style" of former years.

Cal Holden is in his third year as food service director and general overseer of the student workers of Commons.

Cal Holden

Something new has been added.

PRINT SHOP

The Park College Press, leased by Paul Sherwood, employs some student workers but maintains for the most part a permanent staff. It does all of the college printing, however, which amounts to quite a sizable bit—the weekly Stylus, the Alumniad and the Record plus numerous other programs, bulletins, etc.

To an onlooker, the Print Shop can be both fascinating and bewildering with its many machines and presses turning out printed sheets a mile-a-minute, stamping out thousands of addresses, cutting through huge stacks of paper as if they were hot butter and generally all making a loud commotion, but in the capable hands of Mr. Sherwood, Mr. Grattan and the other employees there seems to be no mystery at all.

A few of the iron monsters these men can make work for them.

MAINTENANCE

The Park College Maintenance Department can count on being called upon for anything from painting the science hall to installing the curiously absent towel racks and soapdishes in Hawley. This year, much of their work centered around construction activities — Hawley Dormitory, the road and drainage work done in connection with it and the new faculty homes.

Leslie Miles, Head of Janitor Department

John Schweer, Head of Maintenance Department

Not much fun, but nevertheless quite essential.

Come on, where's the salt on those steps?

Don't ask us—maybe they're drilling for oil.

Hawley Dormitory for Women

A highlight of 1957 year was the completion of the 4-story Hawley Dormitory for women. Excellently planned and arranged — it will be remembered by students for many years to come for its quiet, relaxing atmosphere.

Individual student rooms are attractive, sound-absorbent Haydite masonry furnished by the Carter-Waters Corp. A number of small lounges are located near each student's quarters. A large lounge is also available for group activities and recreation.

May Park College continue to grow in the years to come as it has in 1957.
